Indianapolis Raiders Attack Stores in Sympathy With Ku Klux Society

Indianapolis, Sept. 28. (I.N.S.).—Broken glass and smashed and paint-besmeared show windows were left in the trail of raiders here today, who made a round of the business districts of the city, attacking stores which either advertised "100 per cent. Americanism," or were thought to be in sympathy with the Ku Klux Klan.

Klansmen Plan to Invade Boston

Following the meeting in Worcester, which was attended by 2,500 persons, the Ku Klux Klan, it was learned today, is planning to invade Boston.

Arrangements are being made for a big gathering in this city, designed to show the strength of the Invisible Empire, and to aid in obtaining recruits.

The meeting will be addressed by some of the officials of the Klan, including E. Eugene Farnsworth, King Kleagle of the Maine realm.

WARD TRIAL JUDGE IS ASSAILED

Defence Counsel Asserts the Charge to Jury Favors the Government Case

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The fate of Walter S. Ward, heir to the Ward baking millions, charged with murdering Clarence S. Peters, an ex-sailor, of Haverhill, Mass., was given to the jury shortly after 12:30 today.

Judge Wagner used all of the morning in his charge.

Before the jury retired the opposing attorneys engaged in a spectacular verbal tilt with Justice Wagner, taking exception to his charge.

Justice Wagner had met about half a dozen of the sixty-three specific requests for special instructions that the defense had made and about half of the ten requests that the prosecution had made.

As soon as the judge finished Mr. Campbell arose and asserted the court had favored the prosecution throughout, both in reading the law and in his summary of the evidence.

Mr. Campbell asserted that the court in citing the law and the evidence, had brought out points favorable to the prosecution and had not drawn out parallel points that would

MASKED MEN SAY AUTO HOLDUP AND ROBBERY WAS A JOKE

Haverhill, Sept. 28.—A joke is a joke but an armed holdup is another thing again according to Judge John J. Winn, who today held John MacWilliams, North Andover, and Thomas E. Ryan, South Lawrence, in $1,000 each for a hearing October 6.

Hugh Jamieson of North Andover, with another man and two women, were riding in an automobile in Boxford, when two masked men, armed with revolvers, held up the party.

After searching them, the robbers ordered the four back into their machine, and fired two shots at them as they rode away.

In court they admitted the holdup, but said it was a joke, they knew the members of the party.

Dublin, Sept. 28.—Eamon De Valera is no longer the only Republican Deputy in Arbor Hill barracks; other prisoner Deputies have just been transferred there.

TRAPPED AS CARS PLUNGE IN RIVER

Casper, Wyo., Sept. 28 (I.N.S.)—Officials of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad estimate that between 115 and 120 passengers were on the train when it left Casper. Twenty-eight occupants of the Denver sleeper, which remained upright and in only about three feet of water, were rescued; seven other passengers were rescued and taken to Glen Rock and at least eight survivors are known to have been brought to this city.

Casper, Wyo., Sept. 28. (A.P.)—At least forty and possibly one hundred lives were lost when Chicago, Burlington & Quincy passenger train No. 30 went through a bridge over Cole Creek, fourteen miles east of here.

Estimates of the number of dead differ. The lowest figures placed the dead at forty. A railroad telegraph operator at Glen Rock, near the scene of the wreck, and who assisted in the rescue work, said he thought the list might reach one hundred.

The stream, ordinarily dry during the Summer, was swollen into a

Haverhill, Sept. 28.—Mrs. Bernice E. Sessions, 42 years old, of No. 102 Lamoille avenue, this city, died today in a dentist's office while under the influence of ether. The anesthetic had been administered by Dr. F. A. Holden in his office in the Odd Fellows building on Main street, preparatory to extracting several teeth.

The work had been completed and the dentist and Mrs. Sessions' mother, who had accompanied her, were waiting for her to recover consciousness when she died. Medical Examiner F. W. Anthony declared death due to syncope.

Mrs. Sessions leaves a husband, Horace R. Sessions, and one child.

KLAN PLANS FOR BIG MEETING IN BOSTON AT EARLY DATE

HECKLERS INTERRUPT FARNSWORTH'S TIRADE AT JEWS AND CATHOLICS

Worcester breathed easier today when the much-advertised Ku Klux Klan was held without interference or demonstration by its opponents.

Two companies of the local National Guard remained in the State Armory at the request of Mayor Sullivan but their services were not required. The mob of 25,000 that gathered in Main street outside Mechanics' Hall where King Kleagle J. Eugene Farnsworth of Maine addressed some 2,500 gave the police little or no trouble.

Practically every policeman in the city was on duty in the vicinity. Plain clothes men by the score were stationed throughout the crowd.

"I've been in town since noon," were Farnsworth's opening words, "and so far as I can see, everybody is crazy as Hell up here.

"We're going to have a wonderful meeting—as long as it lasts. I don't know how long it's going to last. There's a nasty crowd outside."

Then, after a male quartet had been heard by the assemblage, Farnsworth walked over to the press table where he lambasted the newspapers of the United States collectively and individually in vituperative language.

"All the newspapers in the United States are not big enough to hurt either me or the organization I represent," he declared at the top of his voice. Then, turning toward the audience, "see if they dare to publish that!"

The King Kleagle's broadside of attacks began with the Jews, included the Roman Catholics and the foreign born, and ended with the negros.

"Everybody is excited about the situation in Oklahoma," he said. "They were just as excited over Louisiana a while back. But that blew over and so will the affair in Oklahoma.

"The man who hollers because a nigger is strung up sometimes doesn't stop to think of the crime or the local situation.

HECKLERS IN CROWD.

"There has never been a conviction in the courts of this country of any Klansman for committing a crime, and there are 6,000,000 members of the Ku Klux Klan in the United States.

"Seventy-five per cent. of the people of Oklahoma are Klansmen, and the governor is trying to run them out. The seventy-five per cent. are going to run the affairs of that State.

"The Klansmen are going to do more than run a State. They are going to elect a President."

Hecklers frequently interrupted the King Kleagle in his tirade.

The crowds which surrounded Mechanics Hall was the biggest ever assembled in Worcester, according to the police.

TROOPS UNDER ARMS.

Company A and the headquarters company of the 184th Infantry, N. G., were held in reserve in the armory, fully armed and ready at a moment's notice to march to the scene. The soldiers were not dismissed until the crowds had dispersed.

Farnsworth arrived from Maine surrounded by a guard of private detectives. He went direct to the Bancroft Hotel, where he remained locked in his room until the time came for him to address the specially invited crowd at Mechanics Hall.

Charles L. Barrth of Governor Cox's council took copious notes on Farnsworth's address for a report he will submit to the Governor.

Seated in the front row of the hall were Telfair Minton, head of the Loyal Coalition and chairman of the first Klan meeting in this State, and Joseph H. Preston, an insurance agent of No. 31 Milk street, Boston.

As he entered the hall, Farnsworth walked past Minton, ignoring him, and shook hands with Preston, seated at Minton's side.

Mechanics Hall was filled to capacity almost an hour before Farnsworth was scheduled to speak. Five hundred persons gathered in Washburn Hall, on the first floor of the same building, for an overflow meeting. Another 1,000, with cards of admission, stormed the building in an effort to gain entrance. J. E. Stout addressed the overflow meeting.

Farnsworth gave alleged statistics to show that the government of the United States is not a free government because of the predominance of Roman Catholics in political office and on the faculties of the public schools.

"The Klan believes in the Eighteenth Amendment," he said, taking up discussion of prohibition. "A man who tries to buck that law and bring back the saloon is not a decent American. No man on earth can say a decent thing about booze. It has been the world's greatest curse, and the Ku Klux Klan is going to run the speakeasy out of this country. The Klan is an out and out political organization.

"When you say we are against the Jews, the Catholics, and the Negro, you lie like Hell," were Farnsweth's concluding words.

WARD'S FATE IN HANDS OF JURY

have been equally favorable to the defense.

Justice Wagner replied that if he had favored the State he had not done so purposely.

The jurors decided after retiring to the juryroom, to have lunch before they began their deliberations and they crossed the street to a hotel under the surveillance of the sheriff.

WARD 32 TODAY.

Today is Ward's thirty-second birthday.

His face blanched and a look of worry in his eyes, he sat straight in his chair when Justice Wagner began the charge to the jury.

Ward was accompanied to the courtroom by his wife and his brother, Ralph D. Ward, and the latter's wife. Mrs. Ward sat next to her husband and the brother and his wife sat behind them.

The courtroom was emptied of the standees. Fully three-fourths of the remaining seated spectators were women, many of them from the fashionable Westchester colonies.

The justice's clear voice rang out to a hushed room as he instructed the jury.

JUDGE'S CHARGE.

"There is no more serious duty than that confronting you today," Justice Wagner said.

He explained the duty of the court as "the law giver," and the jury, "the sole judges of the evidence."

The court then read his instructions to the jury:

First—The jury must not consider the grand jury indictment against Ward as evidence in the case.

Second—The jurors must not take anything the attorneys have said in argument as being evidence.

Third—The jury must remember that the State presumes Ward innocent until such time as the State has proved him guilty.

Fourth—The jury in considering "reasonable doubt," must have such a doubt as would cause any reasonable man to pause in his ordinary affairs.

"Reasonable doubt" does not mean that every point of evidence must be absolutely established.

"REASONABLE DOUBT."

"If you have a reasonable doubt, you must acquit," Justice Wagner said.

"If you have no such doubt, then you will find him guilty."

Fifth—As to the truth in the case, that is a matter for the jury to decide, and the jury's common sense must guide in this phase.

Sixth—It is for the jury to decide in what degree, if any, murder may have been committed—first, or second degree murder, or manslaughter. First degree murder is committed with premeditation; second degree without premeditation.

In second degree murder it is only necessary to prove the killing and to prove this killing was not justified.

Manslaughter is the killing where there is no intent to kill, but where the killing is done in the heat of passion.

REVIEWS TESTIMONY.

Here the court took up the facts as presented in Ward's trial.

"The body was outstretched, with the feet turned up, when found. Police went to the scene. They found no indication of violence until they unbuttoned a vest. No revolver or weapon was found. An empty shell was found. A tire track was discovered at the scene.

"The testimony was that Peters died instantly and after he could not make a move.

"Four days later Ward admitted the killing. He told a story of being threatened by Peters and then, Ward says, he shot him. Ward said a gun battle with two other blackmailers who were at the scene, where eight or nine shots were fired. Ward says he drove up the road, turned back and picked up Peters' gun.

It was for the jury to determine if Ward's original statement referred to the killing of Peters, the court continued. He said the jury was not bound to accept his entire "confession," that Ward was entitled to what he said for himself and the State to what he said against himself.

TRAIN TOPPLES INTO RIVER

raging torrent by heavy rains and the roar of the rushing water over the coaches could be heard three miles.

One passenger coach was swept a hundred yards into the Platte River, which at that point is more than a mile wide. It is believed that no passengers in that coach were saved, because by the time rescuers could have given aid, the coach had rolled over on its side and become submerged.

It is believed it will be 24 hours more before many bodies can be taken from the submerged cars. Most of those drowned may have been washed out of the cars because of the terrific current of the stream.

Although one of the lightest ticket sales in years was reported here by the Burlington Railroad, it was believed that the final list of persons aboard the train would show possibly seventy persons missing.

A trackwalker had inspected the culvert over Cole Creek less than an hour before the passenger train was due. He reported everything all right, although the stream was rising.

A short time later the Denver train swept around a curve and plunged into the stream. Apparently the locomotive got clear across the culvert before it gave way under the weight of the heavy train. Then the engine slipped back into the water, and both engineer and fireman were killed.

Probably only four sleeping car passengers lost their lives by drowning. From 20 to 24 passengers were rescued from the top of the sleeper, which was partially submerged.

Neither the Cheyenne nor Casper sleepers went into the stream.

SENSATIONAL RESCUES.

A rescue train from Casper arrived at the wreck in two hours and immediately it was decided that the best chance of rescue was by means of a rope arrangement strung from the east bank. There were from 20 to 24 persons on top of the sleeper.

A big cable rope was thrown over to the marooned sleepers. With the headlight of the locomotive of the relief train playing on the scene, the slow process of rescue in this manner proceeded.

Men and women and children went hand-over-hand from the sleeper to the east bank, a distance of more than 150 feet. Several times women lost one hand-hold of the rope, only to regain their balance and save themselves from dropping into the sweeping waters.

After their perilous trip across the water, several women fainted and had to be carried to waiting cars. A man carried a baby in his arms from the marooned car to the bank.

Of the injured brought to Casper today few are seriously hurt.

NO BODIES RECOVERED.

No bodies have been recovered from the wreck because of the constantly rising water.

It was still raining this morning. One sleeper was left on the track where it had been derailed at the brink of the stream.

Occupants were sleeping in the car.

Aside from two dim railroad are lights, there was not a light visible at the scene of the wreck, and it was difficult to distinguish the location of different cars in the stream or jammed up against the east bank.

All rescue work had to be temporarily abandoned at 2 o'clock this morning. It began snowing about that hour after 24 hours of continuous rainfall. No bodies had been recovered at daylight.

Daniel J. McQuaid of Denver, salesman for a Rochester, N. Y., firm, struggled four miles through mud and rain to reach Big Muddy oil fields.

McQuaid telephoned to his wife in Denver details of the wreck.

"I was in the Denver sleeping car when the crash came," he said. "The car seemed to turn completely over and stand on end. I crawled out the door, which was only a few feet away, and managed to get out of the car. Noticing the lights in the distance, I started for them. I walked four miles, I since learned, before I reached the Big Muddy oil fields. I at first thought I was the only one out of the whole train who managed to escape alive. There were five or six men in the compartment ahead of me. It is almost certain they were drowned. They couldn't possibly have gotten out of that place."

PAPYRUS, great English race horse, should land from the Aquitania today. Everything is ready, special padded automobile, special landing plank covered with heavy matting, finest stable, with even temperature, food imported, and water also. A fine horse is a noble creature. It represents ambition in the animal world, and deserves fine treatment.

GERMANY WAITED long before developing her dictator. Now she starts with two, one in Bavaria, one in Berlin, both army men.

With the Ruhr resistance collapsing, workmen dissatisfied, Catholic South Germany ready to secede from Protestant North Germany, evidently Germany believes the job too big for the peaceful harness maker, Ebert. Blood and iron will have to take care of this situation. Meanwhile the Allies "watch."

IT PAYS to be firm. Ask Mussolini. Some Italians were murdered in Greece. Mussolini said:

"I want fifty million lire damages."

There is no proof against any Greek. It is certain Greece didn't want the Italians murdered. But Mussolini gets his fifty million lire.

Ambassadors of the league decided he must be paid, because Greece lacked agility in hunting the murderer.

The ambassadors might have decided otherwise had Greece possessed a Mussolini, or had Italy not been eight times as big as Greece.

ON WEDNESDAY John D. Rockefeller celebrated the sixty-eighth anniversary of his first job, in a commission house. He held it for three years and a half, having walked the streets of Cleveland six weeks in hot weather to find that job.

"But for the discipline I got in those three and one-half years, I might now amount to nothing."

Young gentlemen who think success slow, because they have been in the same place six months, observe Mr. Rockefeller's three and a half years at dull work on a small salary. Also remember Napoleon, who told the young lieutenant, complaining of slow promotion:

"I was a lieutenant for seven years. But, you see, I arrived."

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., celebrated the happy occasion by giving ten thousand dollars for the production and distribution of insulin, the new remedy for diabetes. A good modern financial fashion is celebrating anniversaries by doing something for people in general.

JUDGE GARY, head of the big steel company, exhibiting at a country fair, wins several prizes for large vegetables. Financially speaking he long ago won first prize for large vegetables. He "grew" United States Steel.

Judge Gary's farm breeds only the "mule foot" hogs, supposed never to get hog cholera. If only mule foot hogs were on farms, and no mule-headed men in business, what a wonderful world. Judge Gary doesn't say it, but probably thinks it.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—W. E. D. Stokes once swore that, unless I let him have a divorce, he would drag my family into the gutter. His list of corespondents bears out this threat. It includes my big brother Roland, the kindest boy to his sister anyone ever knew, and Hal Billig, my cousin, who is almost as close to me and to my mother as my own brothers.

In the summer of 1913, Weddie Stokes went to visit his mother, Mrs. Philip Lydig. His parents had been divorced since he was a tiny boy and when he came to me one day and said he was "sick of the schemes and lies and wanted to get out of it," I advised him to "go live with his mother" for a year and see whether he would be satisfied to remain with her.

He went and remained a week. When he came back to my home, he confessed to me that he had been a party to a scheme to undermine my home and make him the sole heir to the fortune and give him the social position his father wanted him to have.

COUSIN AS CHAUFFEUR

We left New York in February of 1917 and during the next spring and summer Hal Billig, my cousin, who had been living with my mother while working in Denver, was a constant visitor there. He had given up his room in my mother's house to make a place for me, the children and two nurses. He had taken an apartment.

At that time I had for my chauffeur a college student who went home week ends and during that entire Summer Hal drove my car when mother and I or the nurse and I took the children for trips into the country.

Always either my mother or my sister Marcella, or one of the nurses was with us. Even had we not been chaperoned, the thought of anything but a deep friendship and a real brother and sister love between us never would have entered our heads. It is as shockingly ridiculous to name Hal Billig as a corespondent in my divorce as to name my brother Roland.

While I am mentioning in these articles the persons responsible for the terrible position in which I and my babies find ourselves, I shall not fail to mention an employe of Mr. Stokes for nineteen years.

In 1920 a young lieutenant in the navy, a friend of Weddie Stokes, came to my attorneys in New York. He said that several months before he had received a telegram signed "Helen Stokes," begging him to meet me at number —— Riverside Drive, in this girl's apartment. He met me only once, at a navy affair

THE THRONG THAT WAITED OUTSIDE THE HALL

STOKES PROBE WITNESS TRIES TO END LIFE

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Robert Lee, negro, former deputy sheriff, one of the witnesses questioned by the State's attorney in the investigation of charges by Mrs. W. E. D. Stokes that her husband, the wealthy New York hotel owner, had conspired to defame her reputation, attempted to jump from a window in the county building today.

He was caught by a detective as he threw one foot over the sill of the window, five stories from the street. He was taken to jail.

Lee had been confronted a short time before by B. E. Firse, negro, who said that Lee and Joseph Brunner, alleged "pay off" man who is being sought, offered him $1,500 and an additional $10 a day for time spent in New York, if he would make an affidavit and later testify that he knew Mrs. Stokes was an inmate of a notorious club, according to Charles Wharton, assistant State's attorney.

Firse said Lee and Brunner took a picture of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Tyler, negroes, formerly connected with the club, and after scratching out the woman's picture imposed on it a likeness of Mrs. Stokes, the prosecutor said. Lee is said previously to have admitted that he had "done lots of stuff for Stokes."

Richard Westbrooks, negro attorney for Stokes, and Millie Phillips were questioned before the Grand Jury yesterday. Letters and telegrams said to have been written by Westbrooks to attorneys for Mrs. Stokes, offering to sell out to her, according to the prosecutor, were read.

Mrs. Edward Schlenz, a childhood playmate in Denver of Mrs. Stokes, volunteered the information to the State's attorney that Mrs. Stokes was in Denver at the time certain affidavits in the case claim she was an inmate of a resort in Chicago.

ITALY BRINGS ON LEAGUE DEBATE

Geneva, Sept. 28.—Italy's attempt to prevent the Hague court deciding the interpretation of the League of Nations covenant, led to further debate in the League Council. The smaller states are asking a definite pronouncement before the assembly adjourns. The assembly has definitely approved of the work of the opium commission, and adopted the suggestion for holding two conferences, at the earliest date possible, to draft new conventions which will impose more drastic restrictions on the manufacture and sale of noxious drugs.

FILM STAR IS BLACKMAIL PLOT VICTIM

the district attorney was Marshall Neilan, the noted film director.

While these mystifying incidents had been generally discussed in the film colony for some time, the fact that legal action had been taken became known only today when the Los Angeles Examiner printed an exclusive story to that effect.

BLACKMAIL HINTED.

The specific nature of the District Attorney's inquiry is to determine whether blackmail threats have been made against either Miss Swanson, her mother or Neilan on threats to reveal circumstances which might be construed by the public as detrimental to the character of Miss Swanson and Neilan.

If he can be found, a former employe of Mrs. Burns, a young man, was scheduled to be summoned to the district attorney's office today for questioning.

This man, according to the District Attorney, was to have been appointed administrator of the estate which Mathew P. Burns left to his wife, Miss Swanson's mother.

When this was not done, and he was released from the employ of Mrs. Burns, he was said to have threatened to divulge information which he said he had gathered in Mrs. Burns' employ.

PROBE FOLLOWS ROBBERY.

The district attorney's inquiry followed only a few days after an attempt was made to rob the house of Mrs. Burns.

While this was thought at first to have been the work of burglars, investigation by a Los Angeles detective agency indicated whoever broke into the house sought papers and other documents.

Marshall Neilan arrived in Los Angeles this week from New York, where he had been for some time. Miss Swanson is working at a studio on Long Island and has not been West for a number of months.

Miss Swanson was divorced a short time ago by Herbert K. Somborn, Los Angeles and New York film producer, on the grounds of desertion. Neilan is the husband of Blanche Sweet, one of the screen's well known actresses.

The principal evidence in possession of the district attorney was reported to be a number of letters which were written from Hollywood to Mrs. Burns in New York and at the time Miss Swanson was undergoing an operation for appendicitis in a New York hospital.

It is the belief of the district attorney's office that there is an organized band of blackmailers seeking colony, utilizing false or real information to obtain money from film stars.

Raises His Glass Under 'Good Luck' Sign; Shot Dead

New York, Sept. 28.—A man known only to police as "Frank the Barber" was killed as he was raising a glass to his lips in Migo's East Twelfth street restaurant.

"Frank the Barber" entered the restaurant with nine companions. The chef heard fifteen shots a moment later and found him dead with four bullets in the abdomen.

On a cigar case over his head were three flower pieces with the words "Good Luck" in the centre. The nine had fled.

BROKER ARRESTED ON THEFT CHARGE

M. Albert Jacobs, a broker, of Idlewild street, Roxbury, was arrested by Inspectors Farrell and Hagerty on a Superior Court default warrant, charged with the larceny of $5,000.

Jacobs, who was formerly attached to the brokerage firm of Meredith and Company of Doane street, Boston, is alleged to have received $5000 from Dr. Edwin W. Gehring of Portland, Me., for bonds which the physician says Jacobs did not deliver.

Jacobs failed to appear in court on July 22, the date set for his trial, to answer to the charge of grand larceny, and detectives had been trailing him since.

CITY FORGETS LEADING WOMEN SAYS MAYOR

Are Bostonians forgetting their most prominent women?

Mayor Curley thinks so.

Miss Elizabeth M. Herlihy, secretary of the City Planning Board, thinks so, too.

They have sent out S.O.S. calls for a list of ten women of Boston who have achieved the greatest distinction during the past year.

The lists are coming in very slowly. The ten names, when selected, will be placed in the International Women of 1924, together with the names of other women in the United States.

Miss Herlihy thinks the public should take more interest in the lists. Only one list was submitted today. It contained the names of Anne Hutchinson, Abigail Adams, Emily Marshall, Sister Ann Alexis, Julia Ward Howe, Charlotte Cushman, Mary A. Livermore (or Lucy Stone), Margaret Fuller, Louise Imogen Guiney and Phillis Wheatley.

Some of the other names so far sent in are Mary Beard, Mary C. Mellyn, Maud Wood Park, Mary A. Barr, Alice Stone Blackwell, Margaret Foley, Susan Fitzgerald, Mrs. Glendower Evans, Julia Arthur Cheney, Margaret Deland, Amy Lowell, Mrs. James J. Storrow, Mrs. John L. Gardner and Miss Frances G. Curtis.

STRIKE CLOSES SCRANTON COLLIERY

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 28.—Another colliery of the Hudson Coal Company was shut down when approximately 250 men at the Olyphant Mine declared a tsrike, after it was alleged that a foreman declared a miner did not have enough topping on his car. The matter was taken up with the committee and colliery officials. But no agreement has been reached.

The 500 employes of the Racket Brook colliery have returned to work but there is a possibility of another strike being called the latter part of the week.

DENIAL SENT TO COOLIDGE BY DRUGGISTS

An official statement denying that the National Association of Retail Druggists, through its counsel, E. C. Brokmeyer, termed President Coolidge "a tool of the dry crowd" was prepared and sent to President Coolidge today by the association at the close of the twenty-fifth annual convention, held this week at Mechanics Hall.

Emphatic exception to an editorial appearing in a Boston newspaper, in which the association was advised "to drive the bootleggers from the drug trade and put them behind the bars where they belong, instead of traducing the occupant of the exalted office of the presidency" was taken by the druggists.

"Enforcement of law, according to law, is all we ask; there is a provision of law making the Secretary of the Treasury and Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and not the national prohibition commissioner, the administrators of the law," asserted Attorney Brokmeyer in the close of the statement.

John H. Webster of Detroit was chosen president of the organization at the annual election held today. Other officers are: Vice-president, C. W. Cookson of Wichita, Kan.; Samuel S. Henry, secretary, and William Oren, treasurer. On the executive committee were appointed James P. Finnegan of Boston and Curtis P. Gladding of Hartford.

MRS. F. E. SLATTERY WHITE HOUSE GUEST

Washington, Sept. 28.—Mrs. Francis E. Slattery of Boston, who heads the Massachusetts delegation to the third annual convention of National Council of Catholic Women, being held here, was received at the White House today by President Coolidge. She was escorted by Congressman Tague.

LODGER'S IDENTITY UNKNOWN

Dr. Burke of Worcester Hid Name When He Came Here on Strange Mission

A veil of mystery surrounds the death of Dr. Mitchell H. Burke, Worcester dentist, who died under an assumed name in his room in the lodging house at No. 342 Tremont street.

Police of Boston and Worcester are trying to solve his strange actions and purpose in coming here incognito June 12, when he registered at the lodging house as "Harry Rose, No. 42 Medford street, Springfield."

He has continued to be known as Harrly Rose to Mrs. Rose Martin, the landlady, and the other lodgers.

The dentist carefully avoided the other lodgers in the house. He had little to say to any of them, merely passing the time of day. He would talk briefly with Mrs. Martin when he paid his weekly room rent of $2.50.

PROVED MAN OF MYSTERY.

He had no baggage when he registered, nor did he receive any subsequently. He never received any mail, and nobody ever called on him.

It was his custom to leave the house at 6:30 or 7 o'clock in the morning and to return late at night. He never had newspapers in his room, or any reading matter, excepting a French dictionary.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Dr. Burke did not leave his room Wednesday. When Mrs. Martin opened his door yesterday she discovered him very ill, as she thought, lying partially dressed on his bed. He was taken to the City Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

Medical Examiner Timothy Leary identified "Rose" as the Worcester dentist by means of a fraternity pin. Death was attributed to kidney trouble.

Why did he come here and remain under an assumed name?

Is there a tragedy behind his mysterious actions?

That is what the police would like to know.

MINIMUM WAGE FOR DRUG WOMEN

About 1,500 women workers employed by manufacturing druggists are affected by the finding handed down today by the State Minimum Wage Commission fixing their lowest weekly wage at $13.20.

The finding is agreeable to the employers in the establishments affected.

Here is the weekly budget of living expenses upon which the finding is based: Board and lodging, $8; clothing, $2; laundry, 50 cents; carfare, 40 cents; doctor and dentist, 25 cents; church, 15 cents; vacation, 40 cents; recreation, education, 55 cents; insurance, 25 cents; incidentals, 20 cents; emergency reserve, 50 cents.

FEENEY RAPS PROCEDURE IN ROBB CASE

By BERT FORD.

Judge McLeod was expected to render a decision today on the substitute pleas in abatement and motions filed by counsel for Dr. William M. Robb, alleged slayer and Dr. Daiva H. Swape, alleged accessory, in the Tyngsboro suit case murder.

Arguments on the revised pleas lasted nearly three hours. District Attorney Arthur K. Reading declined to enter any reply to the new pleas in abatement.

Attorney John P. Feeney not only questioned the legality of the continued presence before the Grand Jury of Miss Anna F. Manning, stenographer in the District Attorney's office, but insisted that she had no evidence as a witness which was admissable or helpful to the Grand Jurors.

DECRIES EVIDENCE.

"We happen to know from our investigations of the case "said Mr. Feeney," that the defendants made no statements to Miss Manning which would be competent evidence. Therefore her testimony was just as inadmissable as were any statements which she may have taken from other persons.

"The same applies to testimony offered by State Detective John F. Stokes. They introduced Jason H. Kingsbury, who is reported to have found the second suitcase, and that is all Mr. Kingsbury could possibly tell about the case. We claim that Mr. Kingsbury's testimony and that of Miss Manning and Mr. Stokes in no way connected our client with the murder charged here.

TOO MUCH "ASSUMED."

District Attorney Reading declared that "a grand jury is its own judge and master of whom and what it shall hear. It is not bound or restricted in any sense. A grand jury can hear just as much or as little evidence as it desires to reach a conclusion. It can order even the district attorney to retire. It also has the right to have those persons remain whom it desires.

"There has been no charge made here that the grand jury was unduly influenced or that any fraud was practiced. My brothers have assumed that Mr. Stokes testified merely as to his own personal investigations in the case, but they assume too much.

"Miss Manning was duly sworn as clerk of the grand jury by a justice of this court and I offer the record. The statute clearly stipulates that in such a capacity she was expected to remain in the grand jury room up to and during the deliberations."

HELEN BAUMAN

FEAR BLOODSHED IN PHILLIPINES

Manila, Sept. 28. (A.P.)—Statements issued from rival political camps predict disturbances and possible bloodshed on October 2, the day of the insular Senatorial election.

MAN KILLED IN ROW OVER DOGS

Valleyfield, Que, Sept. 28—A coroner's jury has found Walter Muir, of New York City, guilty of murdering Henri Laviolette, fifty, of this town. The latter was fatally shot during an altercation over hunting dogs. Edward Carroll, of New York city, and Joseph Plante, of Valleyfield, were arrested as accomplices in the murder.

Testimony showed Laviolette had refused to sell his dogs and had struck Plante in the face.

Muir then, it is said, fired five shots, two of which struck Laviolette.

Oil Magnate Dies

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 28.—Lyman Stewart, chairman of the board of directors of the Union Oil Company, died here today. He was eighty-three years of age. His estate is estimated at $50,000,000.

SUITOR IS 'LIKE MELON, OUT OF SEASON'

Miss Helen Bauman of No. 28 Mozart street, Jamaica Plain, wants it distinctly understood that she is NOT going to marry Howard Quill of Roxbury, a former boarder in the Bauman home.

To be sure there would be no mistake Helen breezed into the City Hall and told the license clerk to revoke the marriage intention Howard had filed for her.

Helen met Howard last Summer while she was working in a Nantasket lunch room. Howard is a counter man in a restaurant in Centre street, Jamaica Plain.

Helen is young and pretty. Likewise she tosses a mean flapjack. She was formerly a member of the beauty brigade at Thompson's Spa. Every night during the Summer when Howard was off duty he hied to the beach and waited for Helen to doff her apron.

LIVED AT HER HOME.

Between the lapping of the ocean waves and the flapping of the wheat cakes, a romance grew. Then Howard went to room at the home of Helen's mother.

Recently Helen went to work as a waitress at the Charlesgate Country Club. Since that time her romance with Howard has become badly scrambled. Howard moved from the Bauman home, but his trunk remains as a memoranda of certain unsettled business with "Ma" Bauman.

Helen says she has tried to make it plain to Howard that she has looked over the menu he handed her and found no love listed thereon. "Now he's bashed everything by taking it upon himself to file marriage intentions," said Helen.

"TOO OLD FOR HER."

"Howard tried to be a lover," said Helen, "but he never seemed to get very far. I guess he was too old for me. At any rate, I couldn't see his way of loving." Howard is thirty-seven. Helen is twenty.

Howard is on duty as usual singing out orders to the short order cook. He says he will fight to win Helen as long as there's a bean on the bill of fare.

"He's a nuisance," says Helen. "Besides, he's like watermelon—out of season."

Artist Drops Dead Painting Portrait Of Bishop

Turin, Sept. 28.—As Bishop Bartolmasi sat for his portrait before the noted painter, Alberto Calosso, the artist suddenly pitched forward, collapsing upon the studio floor.

The bishop rushed to him, and found that the man was dying of heart failure.

The bishop administered the sacraments of the church before the artist died.

SON OF STOKES CONFESSES

when Weddle was at Annapolis in 1918, but he thought perhaps he could help me in some way and came to the apartment.

When he rang the house phone this girl answered. When he gave his name and said Mrs. Stokes had wired him to come there, she said that because of Mrs. Stokes' peculiar position she could not see him then, but asked that he write Mrs. Stokes a letter, naming a place where she could come and meet him and talk to him alone.

The young man immediately saw the trap and let it go, but since then he has given to my attorneys the faked telegram with my name forged to it and similar telegrams sent to two other young men whom Mr. Stokes hoped to be able to name as corespondents.

The remaining months of my married life were desolate, lonely, hopeless. I knew that my husband wanted to be rid of me, but my conscience would not permit me to get a divorce. I just became resigned to a life of misery when without a word of warning, Mr. Stokes struck the blow.

(Another installment of Mrs. Stokes' remarkable story will appear tomorrow.)

GERMANS STILL 'RESISTING' IN THE RUHR

Dusseldorf, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—The impression voiced by French officials here is that the population in the Ruhr is taking a stand against the government's surrender, and is in favor of continuing the fight against the occupation without assistance from Berlin.

Paris, Sept. 28. (I.N.S.)—France will not consider passive resistance by the Germans ended until coal, iron and steel production in the Ruhr regain their normal flow from the Ruhr and until all Germany "ceases rebellion" against the Versailles Treaty, the Foreign Office announced today.

Bavaria has served formal notice that she no longer recognizes the Treaty of Versailles.

The French ambassador at Berlin, M. Marguerie, has advised the government that only four or five of the fifty-five passive resistance ordinances issued from Wilhelmstrasse have been revoked.

"France will not repeat the blunder of 1918," the Foreign Office stated. "France will not be satisfied with promises and proclamations. France wants action. France will never negotiate with Germany until passive resistance is ended, in fact. No promise will be accepted."

DIVORCE WIFE WHO QUIT AT SUPPER TIME

Francis L. Cotter of No. 634 Dorchester avenue, South Boston, was granted a divorce today by Judge Weed in divorce court after he told a tale of desertion. He testified his wife departed April 25, 1919, leaving him and the three children without their supper. A cross suit filed by Mrs. Cotter was withdrawn on condition that the husband pay counsel fees and allow the mother to visit her children at all times.

surely happen to our family." He died naturally, like his brother, from complications following an operation. Still, the superstitious will believe that a Pharaoh, turned to dust, reached out with his curse through thirty-five hundred years.

OUR TURKISH friend, Kemal, who made Turkey come back, defied England and France, and beat Greece, is in a local trouble, with business bad and finances strained. The remedy is WAR. Attack somebody, beat the big drum, say the nation has been insulted, arouse the patriotism that likes to fight and the cupidity that makes money in war.

IN THE PHILIPPINES, General Wood is using the army to fight locusts that eat the crops. That's the kind of war that armies SHOULD make, and the only kind that they will make when the earth becomes civilized.

Government flying machines now are spraying forests to protect trees from pests. In France, flying machines replant denuded mountains. That work will go on when war, as a killing trade, will have been long forgotten.

URGES SUBWAY IN PLACE OF 'L' STRUCTURE

Traffic Suggestion No. 3

The American today prints another suggestion aiming to relieve Boston's serious traffic problem. A correspondent suggests the tearing down of the elevated structure in Washington street and substituting a subway.

"Rip down the unsightly and noisy elevated network all the way from Forest Hills to Dover street," says this reader. "Build a subway between those points for the Elevated Company's cars or trains. Resurface Washington street and make it a modern thoroughfare.

"This would open up the full width of Washington street again to badly hampered travel. It would reclaim this big thoroughfare for the increase in travel occasioned by the enormous growth in the use of motor vehicles.

"Removal of the elevated structure would enormously increase property values. Big buildings would soon spring up in place of present structures. The commercial interests of the city would spread out that way and in ten or fifteen years the Dover street section would be the real trade centre of the city. This would relieve congestion and encourage an expansion which the city needs."

TROOPS OCCUPY NEW ZONE IN KLAN WAR

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 28 (A.P.)—The iron hand of the military descended today upon another county in Oklahoma as warning was given by Governor J. C. Walton that more stringent martial rule is in store for other sections if "invisible government" in the State can be put down in no other way.

Upon the appeal of more than a score of residents of Sulphur, the Governor today ordered military occupation of Murray County, where the civil authorities, some of whom are said to be controlled by the Ku Klux Klan, are charged with having neglected to prosecute persons responsible for numerous mob outrages.

Violence and bloodshed may result from the "deplorable conditions" existing in the county, the petitioners declared in asking for the establishment of rigid martial law. The persons and property of those not members of the Ku Klux Klan, they asserted, are unsafe under the "reign of klan officers."

Governor Walton declares there will be no end to military rule in the State until mob violence and masked depredations cease.

"Martial law is being tightened instead of loosened," he said, in denying rumors that a modification of military regulations is in prospect.

AMEND REAL AGE LAW AND WE'LL VOTE, BAY STATE WOMEN SAY

OBJECT TO TELLING IT TO WORLD

Girls! Lets Have Your Views on the Subject by Letter to Boston American

When a woman in New York State registers to vote and the registration clerk asks her age, she replies with a smile:

"Over twenty-one."

Shrewd legislators have just seen to that.

But here in Massachusetts the solons on Beacon Hill seem to be asleep and a lot of good votes are going to waste because Bay State girls are compelled to give their real age when they register.

Consequently, many will not register. Voting lists are open to the public and they strenuously object to having their real ages becoming public property, accessible to their curious neighbors or inquisitive swains.

WANT LAW CHANGED.

Do Bay State women want the law amended so that they can dismiss the registration clerk's query with an "over twenty-one" as they do in New York? If they do, let them write to the Boston American and give their reasons.

In the meantime here is what some of their sisters have to say on the subject:

Miss Margaret Cochrane of No. 33 Paine street, Winthrop—"Swear to my right age? Never! I feel it is nobody's business. I have reached the legal voting age, but have not registered for this very reason.

"Just think, anyone who wants to, can go to the voting list and look up your age.

"I know girls who went to school with me who are small, cute, and dress and look eighteen. They tell the men they are eighteen and the men believe them. They will not register. They say they are too young.

"Why should I make myself out years older than them. I couldn't bob my hair and affect cute mannerisms and get away with it—not my type, tall and rangy. It's high time such a law was passed. Until it is, I'm afraid the politicians will have to do without my vote."

Miss Easter Connor, 92 Salem street, Woburn: "I was just twenty-one when I voted, so didn't mind much about telling my age. I know lots of girls who do, though. I don't see why they insist on women telling their age when they know they don't want to. It isn't a bit necessary. If a man or woman lives in a certain neighborhood for several months before voting in that district, it should be easy enough to identify them."

Miss Agnes G. Beuch, Boston: "Yes, I registered, but certainly didn't care to tell my age, even though I was just twenty-one. It's all right now, but what about later? It's unfair to ask, I think. I know when a girls goes to an employment agency, the first thing she is asked is her age. If she says she is over a certain age, there is absolutely no chance for her. Some business men, you see, ask for girls not over a certain age. I think the amendment of this law would please every woman."

HURTS GIRLS' CHANCES.

Miss Margaret Rourke of Roxbury:—"Perhaps if every woman told the truth about her age, she wouldn't mind having the public know it. But that's just the trouble. There are some women who don't mind telling white lies about such things, but when it comes to taking a false oath, that's different, and they won't do it, no matter how much they may want to vote.

"I feel sure no girl wants to tell her age after she is twenty-five, anyway. It certainly hurts a girl in business. I don't see any sense in asking a woman's age, or a man's either, when registering. I certainly am in favor of petitioning the Legislature to change the present law in regard to this."

SEES POLITICAL SCHEME.

Miss Agnes Kelley of Cambridge: —"I haven't registered yet, but could have. I haven't stayed away from the polls altogether on account of having to tell my age, but know lots of girls who have. I'm sure, I can't see any sense in making anyone tell his or her age. I wouldn't be a bit surprised if the men are doing this just to keep the women out of politics."

Another young woman said she once rounded up twelve or fifteen young women and took them to the polls to register. They were full of enthusiasm to think they could vote. When they lined up in the booth and the clerks asked them to swear to their age, all but three fled.

ASK YALE SOPHS TO SIGN PLEDGE TO BEHAVE

New Haven, Sept. 28.—Sophomores at Yale were asked today to make a signed pledge of exemplary behavior during the year as a step toward amelioration of disqualification conditions which have been imposed by reason of the freshman class disturbances of June. All sophomores were summoned to meet at noon today in Battell chapel to act.

The pledge submitted to them was as follows:

"I shall not take part in any noisy or riotous actions or demonstrations in the streets or other public grounds of the city of New Haven, nor commit any offense against the peace or prosperity of its citizens.

"I shall do all in my power to prevent my fellow-students from offending against the peace or prosperity of this city or its citizens."

ASKS TROOPS TO BRING NEGROES BACK TO TOWN

Spruce Pine, N. C., Sept. 28.—Mayor A. N. Fuller announced today he would ask Governor Morrison to send State troops here so that negro laborers deported yesterday by an armed mob, after an attempted attack on an aged white woman by a negro, may be brought back safely to continue work on public improvements.

The forced exodus of the negroes was reported complete today and spokesmen for the mob which rounded up nearly 100 negroes from construction gangs in the vicinity and placed them aboard freight vans declared they would never permit another negro to enter the town.

Mayor Fuller said today that while this sentiment probably would die down within a few days, it was necessary that the improvements go forward. Since no white labor is available, the negro workmen must be brought back.

No trace has been found of the escaped negro convict who is believed to have attacked the white woman Wednesday, though more than 100 citizens have been searching for him.

RAILROAD DETECTIVE BEATEN BY TWO MEN STEALING RIDE

Springfield, Sept. 28.—Herbert Whitney, Boston & Maine Railroad detective, was badly beaten today while attempting to arrest Albert Provost of Needham Heights and Albert O'Brien of Providence in the local freight yards.

Whitney had snapped a handcuff on Provost's left wrist when O'Brien felled the detective with a heavy wrench. Releasing Provost, the detective leaped at O'Brien and managed to hold him until help arrived. Provost meantime had made good his escape, the handcuff still clamped to his wrist.

Whitney was treated for a cut on the head. O'Brien was locked up. The two men were stealing a ride in a freight car when discovered by Whitney.

SLAIN GRL ORGANIST BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN SECRET BRIDE

TRAGIC LIFE OF VICTIM REVEALED

New Theory in Jersey Murder Case Followed; Plot Made to "Hush" Crime

By Universal Service

Milleville, N. JJ., Sept. 28.—The investigation into the murder of Emma Dixon, the fifteen-year-old school girl and church organist of many loves, has taken the trend that her death, revealed when her body was found in a thicket on the state highway near here, might have been caused by the discovery of either a secret marriage or to prevent such a marriage taking place.

If this hypothesis proves correct and the name of the suspect involved is one who has always occupied the first position among those in the attention of the authorities, the already indignant public of Cumberland County will get a new thrill of horror.

TRAGIC LIFE.

Such a development will bring with it the exposure of an unspeakable tragedy in the life of the dead girl which, according to the whispers of insiders, started her prematurely in the experiences of womanhood.

It has always been a part of the hypothsis of the crime worked out by Magistrate Samuel J. Wilson of Port Elizabeth that the murderer killed the girl at some distance from the place where her body was found and later took it to the spot where it was discovered.

Since the efforts of the other local authorities to minimize the crime from murder to manslaughter, by making it appear that she was hit by a motorist who ran her down, hid the body and fled, it has become more than ever material to establish by a thorough autopsy just when the girl's arm was broken.

EFFORTS TO HUSH CASE.

Magistrate Wilson insisted that the motor car accident theory was untenable and stated flatly that all indications in the case pointed unmistakably to murder.

Magistrate Wilson said:

"Any efforts to hush up this affair, and I am convinced that powerful influences are at work, will be vigorously opposed."

Great interest was manifested when it was learned that the dead girl's stepmother, divorced young wife of Thompson Dixon, had written from Sagamore, a mining camp town near Dubois, Pennsylvania, asking the girl's grandfather to supply details of the tragedy. Efforts to learn the reason for the separation of Dixon and his second wife were unsuccessful here.

CATHOLIC CHARITIES COLLECTION OCT. 7

The annual collection for Catholic charities will be taken up at all masses Sunday, October 7, it was directed today by Cardinal O'Connell in a letter to the pastors of the archdiocese. CONDEMNS G. O. P. "WET" PLANK

New York, Sept. 28.—Condemning a recommendation of a "wet" plank in the New Jersey State Republican platform, made at a recent conference of Republicans, former United States Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen wrote to former Governor Edward C. Stokes, chairman of the New Jersey State Republican Committee:

"The Republican party should not bend, as has the Democratic party in New Jersey, to the brewers, distillers, gamblers, bootleggers and law breakers.

"If the Republican party in New Jersey believes the eighteenth amendment should be repealed or amended, let it, at a congressional election, manfully so declare. Let there be no evasion, no cowardice, no nullification. Let us, above all things, be honest."

Mr. Frelinghuysen was defeated last year for re-election by Edward I. Edwards, Democrat, an avowed "wet."

Louis Agassiz Shaw in the Who's News Group, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

ANOTHER interesting figure of the Beverly Farms colony is Louis Agassiz Shaw, who herewith joins our "Who's News Along the North Shore."

Mr. Shaw, who only recently returned from a trip abroad, is well known as a sportsman, polo being one of his chief diversions. He's a member of the Harvard '09 class and belonged to the Porcellian Club during his college career. He is the son of the late Louis Agassiz Shaw and Mary Saltonstall Shaw, who is now Mrs. John Silsbee Curtis, also of the Farms colony. Alexander Agassiz, the famous naturalist, was his uncle and Quincy A. Shaw his grandfather.

Not so long ago there was much ado in the newspapers when two prohibition agents paid a visit to Mr. Shaw's town house on Marlboro street and most indelicately asked the master of the house if there happened to be a still in his domicile. To which Mr. Shaw answered in the affirmative, and most courteously showed his visitors to the floor above. Wherewith all the articles necessary for a perfectly good still were bundled up and removed from the Shaw mansion via taxi.

Nor did Mr. Shaw consider himself a criminal. On the contrary, he spared neither expense nor trouble to recover his little plant for the manufacture of wet goods. As Mr. Shaw is an instructor in chemistry, it is only natural that he should want to "roll his own."

ALL society hummed and buzzed with interest when young Louis Shaw took as his bride popular Jean Bird, daughter of the Charles Sumner Birds of Walpole. It was a particularly romantic affair, owing to the extreme youth of both the bride and groom, and everyone thought it was an ideal match.

Not long after their wedding—solemnized at "Endean," the Walpole country home of the bride's parents—the groom was stricken with tuberculosis. Then followed long months at a camp in the Adirondacks, where the former Jean Bird nursed her husband back to health. Only once did she leave his side, and that to attend the wedding of her sister, Edith Bird, to Governor Bass of New Hampshire. The following Summer the couple were able to return to Boston.

A few years later society was shocked to hear that Jean Bird Shaw had obtained a divorce from her husband. Some time afterwards she became the bride of Arthur L. Johnson, a writer. The former wife of Louis Shaw and her sister Edith organized the famous Endean Beagles, a hunt club composed of young women riders. Besides, she's an excellent golf and tennis player.

MRS. CHESTER GUILD of Beacon street has been motoring through the White Mountains with her daughter.

MR. AND MRS. PHILIP S. SEARS and their family plan to close their Pride's Crossing estate early next month, when they will return to their large estate in Brookline. It was last June that their son, David Sears, 2d, married Miss Nell White, daughter of the Charles J. Whites of Marlboro street. Following their wedding journey abroad, the young couple have been visiting with the groom's parents at Pride's.

MISS ESTHER CUNNINGHAM

Miss Cunningham made a very pleasing waitress at a charity fete at Beverly Farms. Miss Cunningham is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Cunningham of Milton.

TELL THESE AT DINNER

It was his first great speech, and he wanted it to be a success.

His oration was long and passionate, and he wished to end it with a warning.

He could have couched his warning in the old proverb about locking the stable door after the horse was stolen, but that was too commonplace. He wanted something original.

He thought of something better. Then he shouted: "Don't, I beg you—don't wait till the house takes fire before you summon the firemen."

A minister accepted a call to a new church in a town where many of the members bred horses and sometimes raced them.

A few weeks later he was asked to invite the prayers of the congregation for Lucy Grey. Willingly and gladly he did so for three Sundays. On the fourth one of the deacons told the minister he need not do it any more.

"Why?" asked the good man, with an enaxious air. "Is she dead?"

"Oh, no!" said the deacon; "she won the steeplechase."

"Is that clock right?" asked the caller who had outstayed his welcome.

His hostess yawned.

"Oh, no!" she said. "That's the clock we always call 'The Visitor.'"

The obdurate one sat down again.

"'The Visitor'" he remarked. "What a curious name for a clock!"

His hostess ventured an explanation.

"You see," she said, "we call it that because we can never make it go!"

And even then he failed to see the point.

LOREN D. TOWLE DEAD PROMINENT IN REALTY

Loren D. Towle of Newton, for many years prominent in Boston real estate affairs, died today after a brief illness. Mr. Towle was a prominent citizen of Newton, where he was building a palatial home. He was a director in the International Trust Company and Newton Saving Bank. He was in his fiftieth year and leaves a wife and two children.

HOW TO BEHAVE WHEN OUT IN SOCIETY

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am to be married soon, but don't know if it is correct to have my married brother as one of the groomsmen. The rest in the wedding party are single; he will be the only one married. Some say it is correct and some say it is not.

MABEL.

THE idea that all the attendants of the bride and groom should be unmarried is now out of fashion, and in most weddings today no attention is paid to this outworn custom. The only circumstance that has any bearing on this is the fact that it is not sanctioned in some religions.

If, in your case, there are no religious scruples that change the situation, I advise you to have your fiance ask your married brother to be one of his attendants. Read the social columns on weddings in all kinds of social circles and you will see how many of the attendants, those for the bride and those for the groom, are married. It might be considered a social slight to your brother if you do not include him in your wedding party.

MARY GARDEN PREFERS CARPENTIER TO DEMPSEY AS A SPOUSE

FULL OF PEP ON RETURN TO U. S.

Diva Soon to Play Tennis Against McCormack and Molla Mallory

New York, Sept. 28.—The kaleidoscopic Mary Garden returned from Monte Carlo aboard the Olympia and was "at home" today in her suite at the Ritz-Carlton.

Mary Garden

She has become expert in athletics since she went away.

Lying gracefully on her divan, she discussed her preference in pugilists, tennis players and methods of weight reduction.

"If you were married to Dempsey," she said, looking speculatively at the ceiling, "you wouldn't have to keep a dog or a gun. I like Carpentier better, though. I've got my money on him for his next fight. It was a national calamity when Siki took him out and mopped up the center of the ring with him—really.

HATES FAT MEN.

"Some day soon Billy Tilden and I are going to play tennis with John McCormack and Mrs. Mallory. Oh, yes, I'm crazy about tennis—and swim, ma fei, when we were at Monte Carlo this Summer we used to swim two kilometers a day.

"We'd row out from shore for half a mile—and um—talk things over for a while and then swim in. But Billy is a dear—and we're going to win that match.

"I bought a parrot when we passed the Canary Islands—a big gray one with a red head—and I put him on a perch outside my window at Monte Carlo—I lived high there—and the bird flew off one morning with the whole perch—can you imagine that?

"I hate fat people and the sea. If I ever married a man who owned a yacht, I'd never question him as to what went on aboard that yacht—it would be a closed book for me."

OPENS TOUR AT LOWELL.

Miss Garden was looking very well and has a good bit of sunburn. By way of indicating how she hated fat people, she said she weighed only 120 pounds.

After divulging that she is going on a concert tour this Winter, opening in Lowell, Miss Garden said:

"I saw Jean de Reszke. He has a house full of parrots, too. He sang "Romeo" for us one night—his voice was beautiful—in a small room, you see, where he did not have to force it. He has a great many pupils and is very happy.

"And I saw Coue—dear Coue—every night and every morning I repeat his formula, and if I forget, I don't feel well. I went into his classroom at Danzig, where he had about a dozen pupils. I said to him, 'Monsieur, are you tired after your American trip,' and he answered 'Ah, Miss Garden, I am never tired.' How thoughtless it was of me to have asked him."

HIDDEN LIQUOR COSTS "JOHNNY SHOES" $200

"Johnny Shoes" is Carranzo whose shoe repairing establishment at No. 85A Roxburyavenue, Roxbury, is opposite theh courthouse. Cops raided John's place the other day. In a secret place in the wall they uncovered a fine stock of "wet goods."

Today John told Judge Ahearn he kept this for his good friends and customers. "It helped business fine," said John. "I'll bet it did, too," said the court. "Now you can pay a dividend. Two hundred dollarsfine."

Rupert Stewart of St. Johns, Que., was seriously injured. S. Poulin, owner and driver of the machine, president of the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce and Ivay were uninjured. The men were members of a party coming to this city to attend the annual Autumn meeting of the St. Albans Chamber of Commerce.

Four-Day Mill Schedule

Fall River, Sept. 28.—Beginning this week, the Kerr Mills of the American Thread Company, employing about fifteen hundred operatives, will operate on a four day, instead of a three day schedule.

FIVE BOOSTS IN PRICE OF SUGAR IN ONE WEEK

The price of sugar is on the increase again.

The market has taken an upward trend, and the price has advanced every day this week.

The figures were boosted Monday, twice Tuesday, again Wednesday, and yesterday leading jobbers advanced prices of wholesale and retail sugar an even half-cent.

The new wholesale price for granulated in bulk, by the barrel or bag, is $9.75 a hundred pounds, as against $9.16 a week ago. The retail price of sugar is 10½ cents a pound in cartons, compared with 10 cents last week, and 10 cents a pound in bulk in the chain stores, as against 9½ cents a week ago.

CITY FUNDS ARE TIED UP; 1600 GO PAYLESS

Lowell, Sept. 28.—Lowell's 1600 "white wings" will not be paid today. They were to have received $45,000 for their work.

All funds of the city treasury are locked up while Bernard Gately of the Service Construction Company sits in the treasurer's office with an execution from the Superior Court for $28,000, prepared to grab any money that comes within reach.

Treasurer Rourke is facing a possible trip to jail as a result of declining to honor the Superior Court's execution, on the advice of City Prosecutor Pat Reynolds.

John M. O'Donoghue, attorney for Gately, announced that he would ask the court to hold Rourke in contempt.

And back of it all is a petition denied to Dennis Connors, a citizen, to enjoin the city from paying the construction company. The city prosecutor ruled that Connors has twenty days in which to take an appeal and that the company would have to wait until that time expires before receiving its money.

TWO PROMOTED IN POLICE OF SOMERVILLE

Mayor Webster of Somerville sent to the Board of Aldermen the appointment of Sergeant Ernest Howard to be a lieutenant and of Patrolman Charles J. Sharry to be a sergeant of police. Both officers headed the civil service list in an examination taken three months ago.

Sergt. Ernest Howard

Patrolman Sharry

Sergeant Howard was born in Charlestown April 5, 1874, and was appointed a reserve police officer June 11, 1903, and promoted to the rank of sergeant on April 9, 1915. For ten years he has been clerk of the Somerville Police Relief Association. He is a brother of Captain Avery B. Howard of the Boston fire department.

Sharry is the youngest man in the history of the department to be appointed a sergeant. He is a veteran of the World War, entering as private and being mustered out two years later at Camp Dix, New Jersey, as first lieutenant. He is the son of the late Patrolman Martin Sharry, for many years a night officer in Union square, and was born in Somerville. For eight years Sharry has patroled in West Somerville at night along Powder House boulevard from Ball square to Teele square.

COOLIDGE HAS PLAN TO CUT RAIL RATES

Washington, Sept. 28. (Copyright, 1923, by I. N. S.)—The Coolidge administration has virtually decided to repeal the guarantee clause of the transportation act as a means of bringing about again reduction of freight rates early next year

This plan will be substituted by President Coolidge in the next Congress for the compulsory railroad consolidation program by his predecessor, the late President Harding.

The Coolidge proposal probably will include restoration to the Interstate Commerce Commission the rate-fixing powers held prior to government operation of the railroads.

Repeal of the "guarantee clause" Section 15, has the support of all administration leaders in Congress.

It is understood Republican leaders urged this action upon the President as the only possible means of reducing high transportation costs, a step demanded by farm organizations throughout the country.

Although the compulsory consolidation plan has been worked upon by government agencies for a year past, the plan has met a veritable storm of opposition, not only from railroad executives, but from legislators and representatives of farm organizations as well.

COOLIDGE RECEIVES CATHOLIC BISHOPS

Washington, Sept. 28.—President Coolidge today received the administrative committee of the National Catholic Welfare Council as representative of the Catholic church in America. The delegation, composed of members of the Catholic hierarchy who have been in attendance at the annual meeting here this week, included Archbishops Hanna, San Francisco and Dowling, St. Paul, and Bishops Muldoon, Rockford, Ill.; Schrembs, Cleveland; Walsh, Portland, Me., and Gibbons, Albany, N. Y.

$2,000,000 HANGS IN BALANCE FOR HIM

BRICE S. EVANS, JR.

If Judge Dolan today decides that the boy shall remain under the guardianship of his golfer-father, the lad faces a loss of $2,000,000 from his maternal relatives' estate. He is now under their care.

Whether Brice S. Evans, Jr., young son of the famous golfer, shall continue under the care of his maternal aunt, Mrs. Helen Armstrong of Ottawa, Canada, and be a possible heir to her $1,500,000 estate, or be returned to his father, was to be determined by a ruling of Judge Dolan in Suffolk Probate Court today.

Counsel for Mrs. Armstrong stated that there would be no controversy if the golfer would resign as guardian of his boy. It was claimed that Evans had threatened to take the boy. Counsel declared that when Evans married the boy's mother, who is now dead, he had to borrow $1,250 to pay the expenses of the wedding trip.

Counsel for Evans averred that the father says "he won't sell out because his love for his son has no monetary value" and that "he wants to determine the education and destiny of the boy." A trust fund of the boy's maternal grandfather, amounting to $150,000, will be lost to the Evans boy if he passes from the control of his mother's family.

CURLEY-HAMLIN STOCK SUIT UP AGAIN

The two-year-old cross suits between Mayor Curley and E. M. Hamlin & Co., involving the mayor's stock transactions in 1919 and 1920, are being aired again in a resumption of hearings before W. H. Hitchcock as master.

The present proceedings, temporarily held up till next Wednesday, are in an action of the Hamlin Company to recover $15,486, alleged balance, including interest, claimed to be due from Mayor Curley.

The mayor's counter action, is for the recovery of $65,000 which he alleges is due him from the Hamlins.

Much of the evidence in the resumed hearings bears on 500 shares of Studebaker stock that Attorney A. C. Webber, counsel for Mayor Curley, said the Mayor first bought through the Hamlin company.

Fred Chipman, chief bookkeeper for Hamlin & Co., testified the company kept no record in its ledger of the certificates of the Studebaker stock. He showed a sales order slip which he said showed the order was wired to a New York broker named Laidlaw.

Mr. Webber requested to be allowed to examine the books of the company, but an objection by Attorney James E. McConnell, counsel for the Hamlins, was sustained. Master Hitchcock, however, permitted Mr. Webber to make an examination in so far as the Studebaker stock was concerned.

NEWTON WOMAN GRILLED ON BABY FARM

Washington, Sept. 28.—Mrs. Estelle Bowes Smith, formerly of Newton Centre, Mass., is under police investigation here following the seizure of seven little children, ranging from two to eight years in her alleged baby farm known as the Charlotte-Nellie School.

A nurse got into the school when Mrs. Smith was out. The nurse is said to have found the little tots in destitute circumstances. The seven divided one orange and a pint of milk for breakfast.

It was said the children slept in a attic. The only light in the place came from candles. It is charged their safety had been entrusted to a foreign nurse who could not understand English.

She took them to Rock Creek Park at 9 o'clock in the morning without food, it is charged, and she was given an alarm clock. When the alarm sounded at 4:30 she knew it was a signal for her to start back with the children.

The fee for care of children ranges from $20 to $50 a month. Their parents are both employed as a rule. The police have taken charge of the children. Mrs. Smith protests that she is the victim of unwarranted interference.

Combing Won't Rid Hair of Dandruff
Use Liquid Arvon

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and it never fails to do the work.

Husband Is Reported Missing When Heiress' Life Ends in Fashionable Biltmore

Rye, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Mrs. Charles Webb, heiress bride, and New York and Philadelphia social leader with $3,000,000 in her own right, is dead under circumstances so mysterious a probe by Westchester County authorities was under way today.

[illegible] for three weeks [illegible] at the [illegible] Westchester-Biltmore Country Club. Combined efforts of half a dozen physicians failed to save her life. [illegible] Dr. William J. Meyer, physician in charge, refused to grant a certificate of death because, he said.

Death followed [illegible] mysterious circumstances.

Westchester authorities [illegible] ordered an investigation [illegible]

[illegible] from that [illegible] own today.

HUSBAND MISSING.

Meantime the dead woman's husband cannot be found.

He vanished following her death. Efforts to locate him at his home, office or club failed. Friends say he is merely in seclusion. He was with his wife [illegible] stated.

The Webbs were married [illegible] Last. They had [illegible] large [illegible] hotels, clubs and pleasure resorts.

It was [illegible] changes in Mrs. Webb's will had been made just prior to her death.

Though physicians working on the case would not make any statement regarding the circumstances of her death, it was said that suspicion had first been aroused by bruises on the abdomen.

CAME OF OLD FAMILY

Mrs. Webb was the daughter of S. Jennings Germain and the late Mrs. Gertrude A. Germain. She was of the fourth generation that has occupied the family home in fashionable Madison avenue.

Her grandfather, the late Edmund A. S. Smith, was a financier and left large real estate holdings that still are in possession of the family. On her father's side she descended from the Jennings and Price families of Fairfield, Conn.

Mrs. Webb [illegible] the late Charles Henry Webb, was known as "John Paul," author and humorist. For three years he was literary editor of the New York Times and was on the Tribune under Horace Greeley. His wife was a lineal descendant of Levi Holden, a lieutenant of George Washington's body guard.

Mrs. Webb became ill about a week after her arrival at the fashionable club. Dr. Meyer is said to have told a Westchester County official that she was dying when he was called.

It also was revealed that one of the experts [illegible] to remove the [illegible] on advice of that operation that it was a "suspicious case." The [illegible] for this reasoning is believed to have been the finding of bruises on the woman's abdomen [illegible] the possible significance of the discovery has not been explored.

After Dr. Meyer hurried at midnight to the [illegible] refused in some excitement to sign the death certificate and proposed an investigation, Coroner Fitzgerald called by telephone W. T. Hunter, uncle of Mrs. Webb, who was present at her death.

Y., who asked for a trial by jury to determine whether his father was of sound mind and whether he had been unduly influenced by a sister, Mrs. Mary F. Mann. The largest part of the estate is left in trust for Robert G. Kenefick's children and for children that may be born to him within the next ten years. The will contained a bequest of $5,000 to Mrs. Mann.

COSMOPOLITAN FILMS WIN IN COURT

New York, Sept. 28. Following [illegible] of two recent victories scored by the Cosmopolitan Corporation against an exhibitor who attempted to obtain an injunction to prevent the showing of "Enemies of Women" and "[illegible] New York," Cosmopolitan has now [illegible] again in a legal [illegible]

Judge Philip J. McCook has vacated the temporary [illegible] obtained by the [illegible] Amusement Company to prevent the Washington Theatre from showing "Enemies of Women" which [illegible] previously been contracted for through Famous Players-Lasky for the Gotham Theatre.

This is the second case waged against William Randolph Hearst in the last few weeks and the second one in which the producer has come out victorious. The first one was an application for an injunction against a theatre in Champaign, Ill., to prevent the showing of "Enemies of Women." Judge Boggs, presiding at the September term of the Circuit Court of Urbana, [illegible] held then that the contract made by Famous Players-Lasky for Cosmopolitan's output before the consolidation by Goldwyn and Cosmopolitan was not binding.

The case just decided is the first to materialize in New York City.

FILAMENT CURRENT

Radio Editor:

Is there any way to use ordinary house lighting current for radio sets?

T. T. L.

Amplifier tubes may be run on A. C. current by the use of a transformer and a centre tap resistance. At present there is no way of using house current on detector tubes, although the General Electric has announced a new tube, not yet on the market, which will use A. C. current for both plate and filament. The latter will be heated by an auxiliary filament not connected with the rest of the set.

BIG WHOLESALE GROCERY MERGER

One of the largest wholesale grocery mergers in New England will take place on October 1st, between [illegible] Co. and Segal Bros., which is to be known as the [illegible] Segal Co.

Both of these concerns have been operating in Boston for over twenty years and will now constitute the largest cosmopolitan wholesale grocers operating in New England, and one of the largest in the country.

The officers of the new corporation [illegible] N. Segal, president; S. Wolf, vice president; J. Rabinovitz, treasurer; Philip Segal, assistant treasurer.

Extensive plans are being made for larger warehouse facilities to permit the combined organizations to have enough room to take care of their increased volumes.

The combination means low cost of operation, which will be passed on immediately to the retail grocers, who in turn, will be able to merchandise their goods to the public at a saving. [illegible] Mr. Rabinovitz and Mr. Segal are very well known in the "food product" market and are both considered unusually capable and [illegible] executives in that line.

Year's Best Selling Novel Reveals Mysterious Return of Youth and Beauty to Old Woman

START THIS BEST-SELLER HERE TODAY

A young and beautiful woman creates a sensation at a first night in New York by [illegible] in her seat at the theatre and coolly surveying the audience through her glasses, after the European fashion. Lee Clavering, a brilliant newspaper writer, is immediately interested, and learns she is the image of a former society belle, Mary Ogden, though much younger than she should be at that time. He makes her acquaintance and finds she is Countess Josef Zattiany. He nearly guesses her secret. He asks her to marry him. He takes her to a gay studio party, after which she invites him home to hear her story of renewed youth. He is stunned by the revelation. Meanwhile, Janet Oglethorpe, flapper daughter of one of Clavering's intimate friends, confesses her love for him. Then Madam Zattiany agrees to marry him and they plan their honeymoon.

SECRETS OF HEALTH

ASTONISHING FIGURES

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.

HOW MANY?—21,870,000,000,000,000—and then some!

You get at it this way:

Take 600 divide it by two, multiply the result by 200, multiply this product by 300, keep multiplying the product by 300 and keep on up to the seventh multiplication.

Dr. Reed

The meaning of all this arithmetic is as follows:

One female fly—just the common house fly—lays 600 eggs in the course of its brief career of about ten days as an egg layer.

The eggs hatch out in two hours.

Each female fly thus newly hatched out goes through two other stages of development—one of about four and a half days—when she becomes a full-fledged fly and begins laying eggs.

This gives about eight generations of flies to a fly season of eighty days when the frost stops the reproduction.

But only about half the flies are egg layers, or females, so three hundred eggs become the index of reproduction.

This fact becomes doubly significant to health and life when it is remembered that each fly may become the carrier of the germs of disease.

This role of the house fly comprises one of the greatest forward steps in preventive medicine.

It points with unerring emphasis to the fact that the fly is not merely a nuisance that tickles your nose when you try to sleep, but is an enemy that tries to poison you with the poison that sticks to its legs and wings and body.

This now old, old story is here told in just another way to arrest your attention and to impress you again with your duty to swat the fly, destroy his breeding places, screen him from your homes and in every way possible treat him as your implacable enemy.

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

JIM smiled down at me. His lips were curved to sweetness. He went over to the table and knocked out his pipe against a brass bowl which stood there. Then his smile deepened to a look of great tenderness. He limped across the room and stooped over me, laying his hand on my hair.

I sat quite still, waiting for the great moment of happiness I [illegible] love and understanding [illegible] seemed all mine, and no friendship which came to enrich his life could rob mine of anything.

"Sweetheart!" cried Jim softly. "My Lilac Princess."

Then he caught me in his arms and lifted me to my feet, where I stood for a moment, uncertain, and swaying in the arms which held me off for a moment so Jim could search my face with eager, demanding eyes. The warmth of his touch made me forget everything in the world but that I belong to him and he to me. After a moment he threw back his head and laughed with a note of pride and joy.

"Is there anything in the world that counts like this?" he demanded. "You love me as I love you. Say you do, dear—more than anyone else in the w[illegible]

"I love you! I love you, Jim," I murmured.

And my heart fairly ached with the burden of the great love for Jim which I knew I must [illegible] so long as I live.

"I love you," whispered Jim. "That's the big thing. Everything else is secondary. It's love that counts."

For an evening of perfect happiness I forgot everything except that I love Jim and he loves me. But the next day the old hurt returned a hundredfold. It interfered with my work. For the more Jim loves me and needs me the more I feel the tragedy of his lack of faith in my understanding. Suddenly I realized that unless he could tell me about the Ruth Gregory painting our [illegible] was on a flimsy foundation.

I had a hard day's work, but in the back of my mind [illegible] the disappointment I'd f[illegible] Jim and I came so close and yet failed to find the perfect understanding of complete confidence.

Realizing that I couldn't do my best work while this regret was haunting me, I telephoned Jim to ask him if he'd stop for me on the way home in the evening. I felt that in the everyday, practical surroundings of my own office I could be sure of myself and of my purpose. If Jim wouldn't con[illegible] futility of hoping for that—at least I must be sure that lights and music and romance wouldn't lull me to temporary forgetfulness.

Jim agreed eagerly to call for me, and there was a note of triumph in his voice as he said:

"Sort of fond of the old man, aren't you dear? Like to have him invite you out to gala dinners and come to the office to get you as if we'd just announced the engagement instead of being staid old marrieds of long standing."

"I like to share your life," I answered softly. "I—I—there's something I want to talk over with you, Jim, before we go home tonight."

"The sooner [illegible] girl the better," declared Jim. "I'll be along for you as [illegible] as I can make it. It doesn't matter what you want to [illegible] I'm sufficiently [illegible] you're so anxious to [illegible]

Then he said goodby in a tone showing how [illegible] I'd made [illegible] I turned away from the phone [illegible] of myself and [illegible] I asked myself why couldn't I let well enough alone, without longing to have our love on a basis of absolute frankness and honesty.

My resolution was shaken still further when Jim came into the office at six, after the whole force had gone. I'd left my door open so I could see him as soon as he arrived. When I saw him coming across the [illegible] with the [illegible] means [illegible] so much tender[illegible] it seemed wor[illegible] him on any terms.

Gayly he crossed the threshold of my room, where I sat [illegible] a desk still covered with papers on which I'd been working. Pushing aside the [illegible] in front of me, he slid to a [illegible] the desk and smiled down on me complacently.

TITANIC PUNCHES TO FLY THROUGH AIR WHEN KAYO KINGS COLLIDE AT ARENA TONIGHT

By JACK CONWAY

Hambone Kelly and Pat McCarthy are waiting for the sound of the bell which will send them into action in New England's Battle of the Century which will be staged by the Suffolk A. A., at the Boston Arena tonight.

The cannonading along the Western front during the war will appear light when compared with the terrific punches which the mighty Hambone and his rugged rival will send crashing through the smoke-laden atmosphere at the Arena.

It should be another Dempsey-Firpo bout for thrills.

As many fans as can be jammed into the Arena will witness the contest, so great is the interest between this meetings of the Kings of Swat.

There is brisk betting on the tussle. Most wagers have been made at even money. Nobody is entitled to odds on this slugfest. A single well directed punch is liable to turn the tide of battle.

Kelly and McCarthy are fit and prepared to furnish a furious struggle. For a month each fighter has been preparing for this titanic encounter. Sparring partners have been knocked to the canvas and sent [illegible] through the ropes as the rival ring men have done everything [illegible] to fit themselves for the stirring engagement.

BOTH FIGHTERS PREPARED FOR GRUELLING CONTEST.

The rival warriors declare they are ready to show at their best. No alibis will be in order by the defeated man.

Hambone plans to set a dizzy pace from the time the bell sounds at the opening of the first round. He will leave his corner like Dempsey did when he faced Firpo, intent upon scoring with a knockout.

No 170 pound fighter in the world can hit as hard as Kelly does with his left. As Hambone is a southpaw, he is able to get a full swing behind this smash.

The South Boston sensation also is able to deliver a crushing right hook. This blow only travels three or four inches. McCarthy will be wise [illegible] Hambone's [illegible]

The tremendous seating capacity of the Arena will enable the Suffolk [illegible] more fans than would be the case [illegible] bout [illegible] staged [illegible] Mechanics Building.

SHUTDOWN TO AID 'BIG BUTTE'

Butte & Superior Mining Co. has been having trouble with its shafts for some time but the company has been able to keep going. Shaft trouble is a common thing in Butte.

Butte & Superior has been mining about 350 tons of copper ore a day during recent weeks and about 1,000 tons a day of zinc. Shutting down [illegible] shaft for repairs will affect zinc shipments but it should not interfere greatly with copper production.

The copper ore averages between 4¼ per cent. and 4½ per cent. copper and between 6 and 7 ounces of silver a ton, so that even at present prices of copper and silver it yields a profit. Owing to its grade it is shipped direct to the Anaconda smelter at Anaconda, so that shutting down of the mill will not interfere with its treatment. The shutting down to put the main shaft in good condition was merely a question of time, and will enable much better operation in the rest of the year.

To L. M. SEVERAL COPPERS.

To A. R., Clifton street.—Utah Apex Mining Company was incorporated back in 19[illegible]. The stock is listed on the Boston Stock Exchange. [illegible] would be a very simple matter [illegible] for you to look up the quotations currently reported in the newspapers. It is a big property. Trinity Copper Corporation is a Lawson mine and promotion. The stock is quoted on the Boston Stock Exchange. [illegible] doubtful if anything good will ever come from it.

South Utah Mines & Smelters was incorporated in 1909. The stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange. There are three different Chatauqua Copper companies and many Champion Mining Companies. We do not know which one you refer to. Wyandot Copper was incorporated back in 1899 in Michigan. It is an assessment stock and it is listed on the Boston Stock Exchange. Marsh Mines Consolidated was incorporated in 1916. The stock is listed on the Spokane Stock Exchange, but very frequently finds current [illegible] on the New York Curb, though it is not listed. Ventura Consolidated Oil Fields stock is listed on the Boston Stock Exchange and traded in on the New York Curb. It is a successful organization.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

T. J. W., Church street.—At the outset we are going to tell you we cannot give you [illegible] on foreign exchange. [illegible] certain a speculation. Rickenbacker Motors also is speculative, for it is really an infant concern and though [illegible] advertising their product consistently, we cannot yet say that their shares are investment. We do not know that they cannot be investment some day, but they have not yet reached that stage.

Swift International must also be considered a speculation when you consider that for the last two years it has reported deficits.

POLICE BID IN HUNT FOR FUZZY

All on account of the loss of a three-year-old Portuguese poodle who answers to the name of Fuzzy, city and State police, postoffice authorities and the United States secret service are all active.

This particular little dog, as white as the Winter's snow, is the pet of Miss Helen Canty, assistant secretary to Congressman Tinkham.

While out for a walk with his mistress near Eliot square, Roxbury, on last Monday night, Fuzzy was seized by the wanderlust and hasn't been seen since.

"He was just three years old," says Miss Canty. "He was to enter kindergarten in the Fall. He has certain tricks by which he can be told, such as singing Jo Swerling's songs on Mister Gallagher and Mister Shean, racing around with kid gloves in his mouth and, of course, barking."

All Boston police stations have been notified to keep a look out for Fuzzy. So have the letter carriers of the entire State, while the secret service men say they will return the dog to Congressman Tinkham's secretary at her home at No. 1 Highland street, Roxbury, inside of a few days.

Maybe YOU can help. Naturally Miss Canty will give a reward and ask NO questions.

NEW YORK TO SEE "ONE HELUVA NIGHT"

"One Heleva Night," now in its second week at the Fine Arts Theatre, will be presented in New York within the coming month by George C. Holland and H. J. Devine. The author's name was made public today for the first time and proved to be Jo Swerling, who is well [illegible] Shean," now appearing in the Boston American.

After a recent midnight performance, several prominent stage folk subscribed capital for a New York showing of the play. Prominent among those making substantial investment were Al Shean of Gallagher and Shean, now appearing at the Colonial, and the Four Marx Brothers of the "I'll Say She Is" company at the Shubert.

The play is now being re-written by Mr. Swerling. As there had been some objection to the rhyme in which the play was originally written, the new version will be in conventional prose.

WHEELER RIDICULES BROKMEYER'S CHARGE

Washington, Sept. 28.—Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, characterized today as ridiculous any intimation that the league had promised to swing the Ohio delegation for the nomination of President Coolidge if he would permit an appointee of the league to administer the prohibition law. Eugene C. Brokmeyer of Washington, speaking before the National Association of Retail Druggists at Boston, Wednesday, said he had heard such intimations.

DISCHARGED COP DEMANDS HEARING

Patrolman George Roberts of the City Point station, discharged from the department as a result of a fight at the Farragut Inn, South Boston, on July 29, today requested a public hearing. He will appear before Commissioner Wilson Monday and will be given an opportunity to state his case. Roberts was discharged for failing to put men under arrest and for denying that he was present when the fight was in progress.

Storrow Plan The Best

[illegible]

Yesterday in this column we related an encounter between Mr. Joseph B. Eastman, Interstate Commerce Commissioner, and Mr. Buckland, vice president and counsel for the New H[illegible] at the hearing at Ford Hall on the New England [illegible].

Mr. B[illegible] asked M[illegible] J[illegible] president of the Shoe and Leather Exchange, [illegible] not evidence of good management on the part of the private managers of the New Haven that [illegible] of complete private management the road had succeeded [illegible] to five millions a deficit of thirty millions accumulated during the year in which the government had partial management?

Mr. Eastman replied for Mr. Jones that during that year in which the thirty millions were lost the road was under government control for only [illegible] months and private management controlled th[illegible] ABSOLUTELY DURING TEN MONTHS and, mor[illegible] still, that even during the TWO months in [illegible] government operated the road was actually oper[illegible] Mr. Pearson, WHO IS THE PRESENT PRIVATE MANAGER.

Therefore, if [illegible] ment had anything to do with the loss of thirty millions that year by the New Haven, it was PRIVATE management which occasioned the loss.

Mr. Eastman might [illegible] said something about this alleged reduction of the losses to five millions. That reduction followed an increase of 40 per cent. for freight and passenger rates which Congress allowed the private managers to make when they resumed private operation. In other words, the private [illegible] the rates 40 per cent over the government rates. This is a very easy way of paying off deficits and [illegible] to do with the quality of management.

Now we do not mean to say for a moment that Mr. Pearson's management of the New Haven is bad management, or that it is not as good as the average management of the country. Unfortunately the New Haven did not make peace with its striking shopmen which the New York Central and the other railroads made with their shopmen. But we suspect that this was not the fault of Mr. Pearson of the New Haven or Mr. Hustis of the Boston & Maine.

We suspect the influence of the Pennsylvania, which owns over fifty thousand shares of the New Haven, purchased for the purpose of effecting an influence in that road. The Pennsylvania has greatly injured itself by its truculent attitude toward its employes, and its injury has been passed along to the New Haven and the Boston & Maine.

But most of the mismanagement of these railroads is due to the inherent faults of private management and there is no amount of house cleaning or change of personnel which will improve it.

Private management attempts to do three utterly inconsistent things—it tries to run the road in the public interest, in the stockholders' interest and in the interest of the banking cliques which put the active managers into office and keeps them there. You cannot run a railroad for dividends and for stockticker all at the same time. Always the stockticker wins and always the public loses. Usually both the stockholders and the public loses.

That is why we approve very strongly of the Storrow plan of pulling these New England railroads out of their deep dark cavity by public management; but we want PUBLIC management FOR ALL time. We do not want, nor will New England consent to a plan by which public management will last only long enough to spend public money for the rejuvenation of these roads and then when it has made them run smoothly and economically and in the public interest, turn them over to private management to be wrecked once more.

Danger of Illiteracy

Evening Schools Open With a Goodly Registration, but [illegible]

The Boston evening schools have opened with a registration of 3,000. This is a goodly registration, but we wish it were 30,000. We wish every foreigner, every illiterate man were in these schools.

If we were wise we would compel them to go to school to learn to read and write English, learn something of American history and something of the American institutions. We should not then have a great undigested and indigestible mass of humanity living in our midst dissatisfied perhaps because they do not understand.

We do not urge education of our illiterates because they will ever be a serious source of danger. The danger to our democratic republic will not come from below, but from above, not from the stupid, but from those who are too clever by far. We urge the compulsory spread of literacy. We urge the compulsory spread of literacy because it will help to add the contribution of all classes to the government of our country and it will remove dissatisfaction, not because dissatisfaction is dangerous, but because it is the duty of the government to remove dissatisfaction and to make our inhabitants contented if it can, by reasonable effort, do so.

The Russian government is today teaching in its schools SIX MILLION ADULT CITIZENS! Understand, please, that this is not six million CHILDREN, but six million ADULTS. They are also compelling the children to go to school. No country in the world is today making the effort which Russia is making to educate its people, and yet intelligent men will attempt to make the intelligent people of the United States believe that Russia has a tyrannical government and that Lenine, Trotzky and the Russian leaders are tyrants and usurpers!

Who ever in the history of the world heard of a tyrannical government making such tremendous efforts to educate its people? Tyranny and education do not go hand in hand. They are as opposite as fire and water. A tyrant can only rule over an illiterate people. Who are those who talk loudest against the danger of anarchy and Bolshevism and our foreign class? Of course, it is predatory big business, and who will be first to oppose giving them an education and teaching them about our institutions? We will tell you now that it will be big business—organized, predatory wealth.

It has been big business which has imported these foreigners, kept them ignorant, mixed them up so that Italian, Greek, Pole and Turk may all be mingled and may not understand each other in the same factories. Let the middle classes of the country cease to be fooled. Let the teachers, doctors, lawyers, clergymen and small business men study this question. They will see where the danger is and how to meet it.

THE BANKERS DRAW A NEW BILL OF RIGHTS

By Herbert Kaufman

THE American Bankers' Association obligingly furnishes the country with a set of political and economic patterns, to wit:

Government must not interfere [illegible] business.

The appropriation of public moneys for agricultural relief or soldiers' bonus is vigorously opposed.

Federal supervision of railroads approaches the dead line.

Political influence should be lessened in the Federal Reserve system.

Present high wages were decried and labor's monopolistic grasp upon the anthracite industry bitterly criticized.

The nation is congratulated on possessing, as stewards of prosperity, the American Bankers' Association, which modestly arrogates to itself full credit for all the satisfaction and stability hereabouts.

And, of course, Congress is urged to abandon isolation policies and cancel allied debts—for the benefit of the European market.

Singularly, no emphasis is placed upon the fact that Wall Street, in the last four years, has purchased more than a billion of foreign securities.

A set of sentiments which will manifestly delight farm blocs, progressives and taxpayers, generally.

None are so blind as those who will not see beyond their selfish interests.

By contrast, President Coolidge and his Cabinet hold protracted conferences to determine the quickest cure for granger States depression, suggest the diversion of surplus grain areas to sugar beet production, contemplate a raising of tariff walls until excess wheat stocks are absorbed and propose a sharp freight reduction on export shipments of breadstuffs.

Taken together with the Coal Commission's recommendations, maturing plans for checks upon profiteering and a stiffening of the Sherman act, it is evidence that dollarcracy and democracy have several fundamental grounds for disagreement.

The American museum expedition, which has been snooping around Mongolia for roots of the human family tree, didn't dig far enough to unearth ancestors of the thick skulled gentlemen who hold the primitive conceptions of personal rights outlined above.

A remarkable group of dinosaur relics will soon start for New York, including a nest of fossilized eggs from which those elephantine lizards were hatched. Just imagine an animal skyscraper clucking after a flock of twenty-five chicks, each the size of a bungalow.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON GRAVITATION

By Garrett P. Serviss

Eminent Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

SOME of the conceptions of the Einstein theory lies on the other side of a gulf in the Mathematical Mountains, only to be crossed on a "knife-edge ridge" that few are trained to attempt. Since the non mathematical reader cannot get at these conceptions directly, the only way to give him a view of them is to employ analogy, a kind of intellectual spy-glass which, though very useful, produces more or less distortion, besides being unable to reveal the object on all its sides and in its true relations.

Let us take, for instance, the now famous idea of the bending, or more truly falling, of a ray of starlight in passing close to the sun. This effect, abundantly proved by the recent observations of the displacement of stars seen during an eclipse of the sun, involves a conception of the nature of space (combined with time) that cannot adequately be stated except in mathematical symbols. But it also implies a new view of the nature of gravitation, which can be stated in ordinary language.

Newton treated gravitation as a force, having the effect of an attraction exercised between massive bodies. Thus the gravitation of the earth is, according to the Newtonian theory, a kind of pulling force whereby the earth draws all bodies within its sphere of attraction toward its centre. This view accords with ordinary observation, and is a perfectly good working hypothesis though Newton himself failed to explain the nature of the force. But the Einstein theory treats gravitation not as a force but as a property of space, combined with time or of "space-time."

Now a "property" is an inherent quality of anything, independent of outside conditions or interference, and whose existence, or operation, implies no application of force. Thus a body falls not because the earth attracts it, but because the nature of the space in which it exists is such that it can only move toward the earth. This peculiar nature, or property, of space may be called an inherent curvature. A body moving through it has to follow the curvature of space, somewhat as a ray of light traversing a transparent refracting medium is compelled to change its course in accordance with the index of refraction.

The Einstein conception may be said to affirm that every massive body, like the earth or the sun, is a sort of large knot in space-time, or in what would formerly have been called the ether, and in the neighborhood of such bodies the curvature is more and more pronounced as the body is approached. This is a difficult conception to many, and a nonsensical one to some, but after all it is no more incomprehensible than that of an attractive force exercised at a distance without any intervening connection. Besides, it is supported by a complete mathematical development, while the other has no such support.

HEROINES OF HISTORY

FACTS ABOUT BRUNHILDA

By Mark Stuyvesant

IN the sixth century, King Athanagild was ruler of the powerful Visigoths. To make an alliance with this monarch was the desire of all surrounding nations. For to be his friend was far safer than to be his enemy.

It was with a jealous eye that Sigebert, king of the Austrasia, regarded any attempt on the part of his contemporaries to sue for the hand of Brunhilda, the beautiful daughter of the king of the Visigoths.

But the dashing and impetuous Sigebert won the hand of Brunhilda and there was much rejoicing at Metz when there took place the marriage ceremony which united the two kingdoms. And it was made even more important by the fact that at the time of her marriage Brunhilda embraced the Christian religion.

Chilperic, the brother of Sigebert, ruled over the west Frankish kingdom and when he was informed of his brother's brilliant and diplomatic marriage, he was filled with rage, for he had hoped to win Brunhilda for himself. His fury was so great that there came a war between the two brothers and the peoples over whom they ruled.

Then it was that Brunhilda turned from a shrinking and timid woman into a leader. Immediately she plunged into politics and laid her plans to hold the reins of power in her own hands by ruling for her sons.

To aid them in their fight against this dauntless woman the nobles summoned Clotaire the Second, King of Neustria, who soon conquered her and her forces and subjected her to fearful punishment. Not content with torturing the indomitable queen, he caused her to be killed in the most barbaric fashion.

The great Brunhilda was lashed to the heels of a wild horse. In this way ended the life of one of the strongest characters of the history of that dim epoch.

Branded With the "Scar of Scorn"

The Dramatic Triple Climax to Dixie's Tragic Romance---the Dreaded Sicilian Slash for the Eloping Bridegroom; His Child-Wife Stricken Blind, and Prison Bars for Her Infuriated Father

"The bridegroom kissed her reverently, when around the curve shot an automobile, and upon the rock was projected the shadow of the caress."

Catherine, Child-Wife of Earl Dugan Before the "Scar of Scorn" Tragedy.

How the "Scar of Scorn" on Dugan's Cheek Looked at the Time He Left the Hospital.

Mrs. Dugan (at Right) with a School Chum, Snapped at the Norfolk Beach Party When She Met Her Future Husband.

Earl Dugan, Victim of the "Scar of Scorn," as He Looked Before the "Fatchu d'Mazetta" Had Marred His Cheek.

IF debonair young Earl Dugan, of Norfolk, Virginia, had not wooed and won the lovely daughter of a fiery Sicilian——

If Catherine de Rosa, the girl in the case, had not adored Dugan so madly that she eloped with him——

And if there had been no "Silhouette Rock" near the beach of the Southern city, then——

Dugan to-day would be a merry, unmarred bridegroom, instead of the facially-mutilated, piteous youth that he is. From the base of his left ear to the corner of his mouth it stretches lividly—the dread "fatchu d'mazetta," or "scar of scorn," cut into his cheek in a blaze of resentment, rage and baffled ambition by his father-in-law.

Astounding as the details of this vendetta-like act are, they are really no more surprising than the coincidence by which de Rosa learned of his daughter's lasting infatuation. And so the blame for the tragedy cannot be laid solely at the door of one individual. "Silhouette Rock," runs the whispered Norfolk gossip, is partly at fault!

Had it not existed; had not the sweethearts taken shelter within its shadow; had not de Rosa driven past in his motorcar, there would be no story—or at least only the first, faint chapters of one.

Anger, disgrace and agony, stalking two households and threatening to wreck three lives, would never have been born. Young Mrs. Dugan would not be, as she is, subject to attacks of stone-blindness. But Chance willed it otherwise.

The true and vehement narrative of the "scar of scorn" beats fiction on its own ground. Balzac, master novelist of such themes, never wrote of a vengance more fantastic and terrifying than this one. Indeed, the drama of the de Rosas and Dugan suggests, rather, those sombre tales of cruelty during the dark-red days of the inquisition.

Yet the means to it were simplicity itself. To carry out the purpose of an oath, handed down from year to year in an unvarying code of savage ethics, the man who executed it used no knouts or boiling oil, no bastinado or pit and pendulum, no "iron bride" or glowing ploughshares.

He used a plain, keen knife—as plain as his purpose, as keen as his wrath. That he was later sentenced to six months in jail, fined $500, and sued by his scarred son-in-law for $20,000 damages—all this, apparently, meant little to him.

He has accomplished his aim.

The seed of de Rosa's dislike was sowed when Dugan was first attracted to the charming Catherine. Just past eighteen and highly popular with many of Norfolk's prettiest girls, Dugan represented a clean-cut type of American youth, with the true Southerner's gallant attitude toward all womankind.

But when he met Miss de Rosa, general gallantry was changed into specific infatuation. His friends say he fell madly in love with the slim fifteen-year-old daughter of Edward de Rosa, well-known and wealthy restaurateur. She, by all reports, was no less intense in her interest. With all the native ardor of a warm-blooded, Latin nature, she responded touchingly to Dugan's words of affection.

"Judged by any standards," says a resident of Norfolk, who knows both the de Rosa and Dugan families well, "Catherine was an exquisite picture. Her eyes were lustrous, limpid, with the soft splendor of the Land of the Golden Orange. Her hair, plaited and coiled, after the custom of Catania, was a veritable crown of glory. Her flashing teeth, her milk-white skin, the perfect contour of her features attracted attention wherever she went. Her figure was graceful, lithe, natural in every movement."

With such personal charms, it was not strange that she cast a spell over Dugan. She had, it is true, many admirers, but from a distance, only. Suitors were kept at arm's length because of a father's jealous watchfulness.

Neighbors say that Catherine led an almost cloistered home life. A natural desire to shield his beloved child from meddlers, money-hunters and match-makers was partly responsible for this strange piece of stern protectiveness. But another factor entered in—family pride.

De Rosa, his friends declare, was flamingly proud. A descendant of Count Robert de Rosa, a famed Italian noble, the restaurateur had high, secret hopes of a foreign alliance of wealth and power for his daughter.

"I want you sought, bambina mia," he told her, "in the manner of my cherished homeland. I desire that you marry an Italian of splendid lineage. On such a union I will smile, and I will bestow a liberal 'dot'—and my blessing."

Thus de Rosa, aided by his wife, kept an ever-watchful eye on their "bambina." She attended a select girls' school near her home. Most of the rest of her time she passed with her parents.

But there came a day—as there always does—when the paternal watch was relaxed. Catherine, tired of restraint, "played hookey" from her rigid seclusion; was introduced to a tall, athletic, comely swimmer, with the suave manners of a well-bred Virginian.

Before their gay beach party ended, Miss de Rosa and Dugan, the expert diver, were engaged. Followed days of secret meetings—endearing phrases in hastily scrawled notes—lamp signals at windows. And then, unable longer to bear their hidden courtship, yet fearing the flash of fury in de Rosa's eye, Dugan and Catherine eloped to Elizabeth City, N. C., and were married.

The girl had told her parents, it appears, that she was going swimming with some schoolmates. To make the ruse more plausible, she took with her her bathing clothes, and when she and her freshly-acquired husband returned to Norfolk's outskirts, he proposed a dip. Both were in high spirits, and the prank appealed to the child in both of them.

It was a perfect night—cool, calm, silent. The wedded lovers, wearied by their swim, sat down in the shade of "Silhouette Rock" to rest. This is a boulder-like hillock, so set at a turn in the road that passing motor-cars throw momentary flashes of white light upon its smooth surface.

The bridegroom, overwhelmed with the beauty of the night and his love for his wife, kissed her reverently on the lips when—around the curve shot an automobile—de Rosa at the wheel—and upon the chalky face of the rock was projected the shadow of the caress.

Versions of what followed vary. But credible witnesses say that de Rosa leaped from the machine, his face aflame with fury; whipped out a long, lean knife and, before Mrs. Dugan could interpose, threw himself at the unwelcome son-in-law and carved the "scar of scorn" into his cheek.

So frightful was the wound that Dugan's mouth was enlarged by five inches. Twenty-three stitches were needed to close the outside gap, and five within. For several days he could see nothing, his vision having in some strange way been impaired.

Certain eye specialists attributed this sudden affliction to the shock which Dugan underwent when de Rosa branded him with the "scar of scorn." By others, it was surmised that the slash across the young man's cheek had, incidentally, weakened or loosened one of the optic muscles, impairing the whole system of vision. Still others declared that Dugan's sudden blindness was inexplicable—or that it might have had nothing to do with the knife thrust.

But whatever the truth was, the fact remains that Dugan's child-wife was to share amazingly in his misfortune, and that her case would baffle experts, even as his had done, though his loss of sight was perhaps only temporary. And what, the reader is wondering, could have been this similarity of mishap?

Now enters one of the most peculiar phases of the tragedy. For beautiful Catherine, who had fainted when the assault occurred, has, since that appalling night been, from time to time, blind. When de Rosa appeared in Corporation Court recently, at the continued hearing of the case, Catherine, pale, weak and trembling, took the stand.

Suddenly she clutched the railing, staggered, then screamed, "I cannot see AT ALL! I cannot see ANYBODY!" It was the worst attack which she had undergone—and the latest chapter in the unparalleled story of the "scar of scorn," that searing emblem of Sicilian hatred which saddened two devoted young people, caused a city-wide scandal and brought a devoted father to the bar of justice.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

A MIDDLE-WEST judge says the reason so many motorists disregard the law is that the average traffic cop doesn't look ferce enough.

A POLICEMAN with a long mustache and a heavy set of whiskers can command more respect than a close-shaven one.

A COP with a nice hair comb and a clean collar has just as much authority as any other asphalt detective, only the people won't believe it.

HE has to club you over the head and take you to jail before you have any confidence in him.

THE citizens ought to realize that he isn't put out in the middle of the street as an ornament.

IF this were the case there would be hundreds of better ways of beautifying the city.

SOME people seem to think that a cop who speaks pleasantly to them has forgotten where the jail is.

OF course, a policeman has no right to bawl you out unless you break the law. But it's hard to know what the law is because so many cops make rules of their own.

ONCE in a while a cop will go home and pass a law while he's eating his dinner.

THEN the next day you're supposed to obey a rule that nobody knows except himself and his wife.

TRAFFIC cops shouldn't be allowed to make their own laws. It's hard enough breaking the ones we have now.

A POLICEMAN would find it much easier to make motorists obey the traffic regulations if he'd grow a long, black mustache and stand in the middle of the street with a whip in his hand.

TRY TELLING THE GOOD THINGS YOU KNOW ABOUT PEOPLE

Did you ever try telling the good things you know about people while abstaining from speaking of their faults?

Why not begin today, and for one week speak only good of those you know?

You will like it and feel better pleased with yourself.

You know how true it is that just as soon as you hear something unfavorable of a person you feel impelled to tell it to someone.

It is a mean streak in your nature.

You would get a lot more out of life with less loss to yourself if you would curb this bad habit of yours to "knock," scoff at, or malign others.

If you must engage in personalities say the good things and leave the rest to the hopeless gossips of the few malicious ones in every community.
